

January 2012

hoteldeb01

TME Thermometer Poll at Hotelympia 2012 Win a £200 DEBENHAMS Shopping Spree

Visitors to Hotelympia 2012 are to have their say about an innovative new style thermometer even before it hits the shelves. Exhibitor, TM Electronics, will ask visitors to take part in a new product opinion poll which could see them winning a £200 shopping spree at high street giants, DEBENHAMS.

Leading thermometer manufacturer, TME will gauge opinion on key elements of a brand new thermometer design, due to be launched later this year. The mini product poll includes brief questions on environmental impact, value for money and performance. All completed poll cards will be entered into a free draw with one lucky winner receiving a £200 DEBENHAMS Gift Card.

Visitors to the stand can try out a wide selection of thermometers, probes and data loggers from TME's extensive range of temperature monitoring equipment suitable for food, catering, hospitality and facilities management.

MD, Tom Sensier, says: "Hospitality 2012 is a magnet for experienced chefs, catering managers and catering equipment suppliers – a perfect opportunity to ask the professionals what they value most in a new thermometer. Our detailed plans are still not finalised so it really isn't too late for people to have their say."

Hotelympia 2012 takes place at London ExCel on 26 February to 1st March. Visitors must return their completed poll card to TME's stand (S1645) by the end of the show in order to be entered in the draw. Ends

For more information, contact Danielle Sensier on tel 01903 700651
sales@tmelectronics.co.uk www.tmelectronics.co.uk

Thermometers from TM Electronics

@tmelectronics